

Counselling Contract

SESSIONS

Sessions will last for 50 minutes and will usually be at the same time and on the same day of the week, experience shows that a consistency of time and place positively aids the therapeutic process. I contract to a minimum of 6 - 8 sessions.

Should you need to cancel a session please let me know as soon as possible. A minimum of 24 hours notice is required or the cost of the missed session will be chargeable. I would ask that you let me know of any planned holidays or appointments as much in advance as you are able and I will do similarly. If I have to cancel a session for any reason you will not be charged.

I will be unable to work with you if you are intoxicated however the session charge will stand.

CONFIDENTIALITY

Counselling sessions are kept in strictest confidence, there are however times when confidentiality may need to be broken. Should such an occasion arise; for example if you or someone else is at risk of being harmed, I will make every effort to discuss this with you first. I also attend regular supervision in compliance with the BACP, (British Association of Counsellors & Psychotherapists), code of ethics. Your identity will however remain confidential and personal details will be protected.

FEES

Session fees for couple counselling start at £50 per session. Long term counselling fees are subject to review. These fees are payable at each session.

ENDINGS

I offer open ended counselling so will rely on you, the client to let me know when you wish to end; we will also have periodic reviews. It is usual to spend more than one session reviewing our time together at the end of counselling. In longer term work I would suggest several sessions to end. For short term work at least one session is required to 'end'. This can be reviewed, discussed with me.

As members of the British Association of Counselling and Psychotherapy we are bound by their Framework for Good Practice and subject to their complaints procedure.
